Debut of Dallas Art Fair

This weekend's Dallas Art Fair reflects the explosive growth going on in the city's artistic community. The inaugural event, which organizers hope to make an annual happening, officially gets under way tonight and is being presented by Moët Hennessy. For all three days of the fair, attendees may visit with and purchase art from dealers and experts. The fair will showcase paintings, sculpture, drawings, prints and photographs from postwar artists represented by more than 30 prominent national art dealers from 12 U.S. cities. Those whose work will be presented include Chuck Close, Joan Mitchell, Sol LeWitt, Damien Hirst, John Chamberlin and Rufino Tamayo.
