Ex-Cowboy Ron Springs' wife sues doctors

The wife of former Dallas Cowboys running back Ron Springs is suing two doctors she accuses of letting her husband slip into a coma in October, just months after a kidney donated by ex-teammate Everson Walls appeared to have saved his life. The medical-malpractice suit filed Tuesday in Dallas by Adriane Springs seeks unspecified damages and describes Springs, 51, as being non-responsive and incapacitated since surgery Oct. 12 to remove a cyst on his left forearm. Adriane Springs said her husband has brain damage and she didn't know if he would recover. "This is just a very tragic outcome," she said. Named in the suit are Joyce Abraham, David Godat and the Texas Anesthesia Group. They could not be reached for comment.
