

ALAN PEPPARD

apeppard@dallasnews.com

Dancing with Phyllis

Movin' on up

There's a seductive audaciousness to Museum Tower, the planned 42-story luxury condo tower that will soon rise above the Arts District right between the Nasher Sculpture Center and the Morton H. Meyerson Symphony Center. Wednesday night, Museum Tower architect Scott Johnson was in town from L.A. for a party at the tower's sales center on Flora Street (behind the Belo Mansion).

Scheduled for completion in 2010, Museum Tower is a glass-clad modernist structure being built by Dallas partners John Sughrue, Dan Boeckman, Greg Greene and Lyle Burgin.

Chef and restaurateur Stephan Pyles is the building's culinary ambassador (he'll help residents design their dream kitchens).